Andy and Sara Robinson

Andy & Sara

June 20, 2006, Staff Sgt. Andy Robinson, a counterintelligence specialist, was embarking on a mission to collect information on an insurgent IED cell. While patrolling in Al Anbar Province, Robinson's vehicle was involved in an IED attack by the same terrorist cell he was investigating. Andy sustained compound fractures to his lower legs, collapsed lungs, and a fractured vertebra that would leave him paralyzed from the chest down with partial paralysis in his arms.

Despite spending seven months in the hospital, undergoing several major surgeries, and continuing an aggressive rehabilitation regiment Andy and his wife Sara continue to look forward to the horizon anxiously awaiting a bright future with both challenges and rewards that come with their new appreciation for life.
